version: May 25th, 2018

Preamble

Denkungsart GmbH (hereinafter referred to as "Principal") provides an interactive platform for film, television, theater and new visual media on Castupload.com as well as on the web-services, web-applications and all related sub-domains as for example simone-baer.castupload.com, anja-dihlberg.castupload.com (hereinafter referred to as "Castupload")

Castupload is an online casting portal, which provides casters (especially casting-directors and other with the casting of productions engaged persons) and their clients (especially producers and directors), as well as actors and agents (hereinafter jointly referred to as "Users" or "User Groups") a place to network and collaborate in a decentralized manner as regards location and time zone. Castupload contains an intelligent actor database with eCasting, Live Casting and Content Management functionality.

Casters can access an actor database using the expert search function, manage classic studio castings, and conduct eCastings. Then a selection can be made and jointly assessed with clients (as producers, directors) and employees.

Actors may also use the eCasting function providing the opportunity to successfully and easily participate in castings across the globe. Actors can create and manage their own show reels with a showreel manager. In addition, roles that fit the respective profile are displayed.

Agents can manage their actors with Castupload centrally and receive information and feedback on Castings and eCastings. Furthermore, agents receive messages when roles become available that fit their actors' profiles.

Now, therefore, the following General Terms of Use and Service apply between the parties.

The Principal provides the English version of the General Terms of Use and Service only for your convenience; the German version prevails.
